On the Cover
Paragon, Coe-Brown Academy’s award-winning literary magazine, has once again received accolades. Recently the National Council of Teachers (NCTE) announced that it selected Paragon to receive its “Highest” rating for the 2004 edition.

Paragon is a student-edited literary magazine that showcases the writings and artwork of Coe-Brown students. Members of the magazine staff read every entry and review all artwork submitted before choosing the final contents of the magazine. Working under the guidance of advisors Anna Hazen and Lynn Sanborn, the students then create the computer layout of the entire book. The wire sculpture was created by Caitlin Davidson ’06 and the cover was designed by Lindsay Orlowski ’04.

Schools voluntarily submit their magazines to organizations such as NCTE or the Columbia Scholastic Press Awards to receive critiques and comments. Since 1998, Paragon has received either “Superior” or “Excellent” ratings; this is the first year it has received NCTE’s “Highest” rating – the most prestigious rating they offer. In addition, the magazine has received either a “Gold”, “Silver” or “Bronze” award every year since 1997 from the Columbia Scholastic Press Awards.

Issues of Paragon can be read on the Coe-Brown website: www.coebrownacademy.com

Bob Grant ’53, Truly Deserving Trustee Emeritus

Bob Grant joined CBNA’s Board in 1980. A member of the Board of Trustees for fifteen years, and its President for five of those years, from 1981 to 1986, Bob Grant has made his mark on his alma mater. He commented that after just one year on the Board, he accepted the role of its President with the understanding that the other trustees would back him 100 percent. He served for ten years, from 1980 to 1990, then went off the Board for two. He missed the challenges and the rewards and so he returned to the board for five more, serving from 1992 to 1997, and during that time Smith Hall was being built.

Bob said he was honored to be asked to fill the role of Board President and understood the trustees were looking for someone with a business background. Bob had operated the Northwood Garage for forty-five years before selling it to son Jim, who is a current Board member, and he had run Northwood Transportation for thirty-five years before selling it to his daughter Debbie, who had graduated from CBNA in 1983. That’s a lot of business experience!

The late 70’s were a turbulent time for many private schools and Coe-Brown was no exception. In 1980, when Bob joined the Board, the school’s greatest challenge was the urgent need to immediately hire a strong headmaster who could and would lead the school through growth and change. Bob commented, “The highlight of my Board career was hiring David Smith. Everyone liked him and agreed with me that he was the right man to get the school going. He did just that!” Bob is also very proud that the Board, under his leadership, pulled together and became more business oriented as policies changed and the school steadily improved. “The expertise on the Board addressed all sorts of issues and the Board developed a very strong relationship with David and also with the faculty.”

During Bob’s years on the Board, the school did, indeed, grow. Wiggin Hall was completely renovated, two rental apartments were remodeled to add to annual revenues, the library was significantly expanded, the multi-purpose room was built – all to help the school meet the wonderful growth it began to experience. He reiterated that all that building was possible because of the endowed interest from the school’s trust funds.

He credits much of the campus area that has been developed on the far side of the highway to his predecessor Bob Johnson’s vision that led to the construction of the tunnel that so effectively and safely connects the two areas of the campus.

The ties that bind Bob Grant to Coe-Brown Northwood Academy are many and strong. His mother was Dorothy Kelly Grant and all her family had attended the school at some time or other, his daughter Debbie Grant D’Alessandro graduated in 1983 and his Grant grandchildren were very involved with CBNA. Lindsey, Class of 2002, was featured on the front cover of the first VISIONS for her outstanding senior project that organized Coe-Brown Cross Country inaugural race, Run to Fall...
5K. James, 2004, was featured on the cover of VISIONS III, when he starred in Footloose, the 2003 spring musical.

Because Bob had to work after school and on weekends, the girls in his first period study halls often had to help him with his homework. He was handsome and charming (and he certainly still is!) so he must not have had to try too hard to convince the young ladies to help him. He was an active member of FFA his sophomore through senior years and a member of the Senior Play cast in 1953. His after school commitments left little time for sports but he loved baseball - the big sport in the 1950’s at CBNA.

He laughingly and most emphatically declared that he had absolutely nothing to do with the tower bell’s adventures when he was a student in 1953, despite rumors to the contrary. He did say that it was rung too hard, spun completely around on its axis and broke into pieces. Years later, Bob and his buddy Dick Bengtson ‘53 fixed it. A crane was on site to repair one of the buildings so he and Dick repaired the bell and put it back.

The years Bob spent fixing cars and buses came in handy when vehicles broke down in the Ag classroom; he could easily fix them. Although he’s retired from his businesses, Bob still loves machines. He got his first airplane in 1969; he is now flying his tenth, a Cessna 185 with floats, so he can fly it to Florida and to Canada for fishing trips.

For more than half a century Bob Grant has been associated with Coe-Brown Northwood Academy. In keeping with his cheerful and engaging optimism, he sums up his years on the Board succinctly when asked to reflect on his biggest challenges and his vision for the school’s future. “It was all pretty smooth all these years, and I had fun! My dream is to keep Coe-Brown as good as it is right now. Everyone is happy with things as they are.”

By Carolyn J. Smith
A critically important function on any construction project is the overseer, the one who sees the big picture, the little flaws, the omissions, the mistakes....

In the mid-1980’s, as Coe-Brown Northwood Academy’s Board of Trustees began to think of further expansion to the campus to more adequately house an ever-increasing number of students, the decision was reached that a capable construction supervisor was needed. On the drafting table were plans to construct a larger library in place of the automotive shop and add 5 or 6 new classrooms near the Towle-Swain Resource Center. Because some of this construction was within existing structures, the plan was complex and the building of the necessary new spaces was complicated, a true professional was needed.

The Board had the wisdom and foresight to hire a Clerk of the Works, David Whitcher. A member of the Planning Board of the town of Strafford, David had the construction experience and the familiarity with building codes to be able to professionally and competently oversee the many projects that have been undertaken in the intervening twenty years at CBNA. A graduate of the University of New Hampshire, with a degree in geology and a minor in business, he soon realized there weren’t any jobs around in the geology field so he returned to construction, something he had enjoyed when he was just out of high school. It’s been his profession ever since.

When asked why he’s been so incredibly involved with Coe-Brown, when he didn’t even attend it, David answered, “I went to a small school in Strafford, Austin-Cate, a school that doesn’t even exist any more. We competed with CBNA, so I knew it well. I had it in the back of my mind that I didn’t want Coe-Brown to ever close.”

David’s expertise and experience resulted in his election to the Board of Trustees in 1985 and, as chair of the Board’s Building and Grounds Committee, David said, “I was compelled to see the completion of the multitude of expansions and additions. And I enjoyed our hands-on Board even though the challenges to find the necessary money and the effort needed for coordination of more and more remodeling were huge.”

In 1988, another addition, for new science and math classrooms and a multi-purpose room, was created behind and beneath the Gerrish Gymnasium and in 1989 a building adjacent to Wiggin Hall was renovated for a music/band room.

With Alumni Field across the ever-increasingly busy Route 4, student safety became a concern; by December, 1990, a tunnel below the highway was completed and a building was constructed that sheltered the concrete ramps down to the tunnel on the uphill side.

In 1998 CBNA’s excellent music program required that Wiggin Hall be enlarged to meet the demands of that department’s growth and popularity. Two more classrooms were also fitted into Wiggin Hall. But more classroom space was urgently needed so Soper Hall was renovated to house social studies, language and more math classrooms. Then the Robinson property was acquired to provide more parking spaces.

The tunnel under Route 4 encouraged the Board’s Building and Grounds Committee to look to all of the Academy’s land across the highway. In 1995, the spacious and modern Smith Hall was completed; in it were a much needed and much larger second gymnasium, offices and classrooms for the vocational programs. The foyer of the Main Building was enlarged... and remodeled and both conference rooms were significantly renovated.

After voting in late 2002 to authorize the expansive science and math edifice, with a dining commons and kitchen on the lower level, the Board proceeded, under David’s watchful eye, to construct the magnificent new building situated between Wiggin Hall and the old building.

David commented, “I’ve done what needs to be done. As the administration has passed down information to my committee, we have been able to make decisions about the size, function, location and relationship of spaces. I carefully consider the financial impact on the institution and I create preliminary designs that use spaces in a logical way. My preliminaries are pretty much utilized for the final blueprints. From now until June we’ll be hard at work on the Master Plan for the next five years.” He went on to say, “This building we’re in (Smith Hall) got us over the hump for continued growth. It was across the street and it worked for us. We’ve been able to expand our campus and avoid the monstrosity of one huge, ugly building on the original side of Route 4.”

When David Whitcher retires from CBNA’s Board, he can and should be justifiably proud of his enormous contributions to the creation of the new face of the Academy. As he said, “I am most proud, personally, of Coe-Brown’s expansion accomplished in a logical manner and an orderly pattern while filling the needs of the student population. And I am truly proud of our students, the way they are each day and their obvious gratitude for their education here. I am so impressed with their overall cleanliness and care for this institution they so obviously respect. Our administration and Board are responsible for their attitude, I believe.

“My dreams? I’d love to see a complete restoration of the old building and the construction of a new arts center.”

Despite his imminent retirement from Coe-Brown Northwood Academy’s Board of Trustees, one senses he will continue to be involved with the school he so obviously loves.

By Carolyn J. Smith
From a one-room schoolhouse, I came to Coe-Brown Northwood Academy for high school, from 1934 to 1938. It was quite a change for me, but the teachers were so helpful. I enjoyed it very much and learned a great deal in preparation for college. While attending Coe-Brown Northwood Academy, I developed a radio repair business. I thought I would continue this business full-time after I graduated from Coe-Brown Northwood Academy, but Mrs. Richardson convinced me that I still had a lot to learn and should go to college. Thanks to her, I enrolled in the University of New Hampshire, majoring in Electrical Engineering. I also played trumpet in the marching band. I became very interested in all theories of engineering, especially the automatic control of aircraft. I wrote a thesis on the automatic control of aircraft and sent it to the General Electric Co. in Schenectady, New York. They hired me after I graduated from UNH in 1942. I started work in the Aeronautics and Marine Division.

My first job was developing a 50-caliber ammunition booster for the machine gun in aircraft gun turrets. My next assignment was to develop an aircraft automatic pilot with the help of mechanical and instrumental engineers who developed and built the hydraulic activators and gyroscopes and I designed and built the electronic amplifier and controls. This equipment was built for the U.S. military hospital was able to set my right arm and elbow and put it in traction. A few days later, they put a cast on that covered my waist, shoulders and right arm.

On July 25th, I was transferred to Prestwick for a trans-Atlantic flight to Long Island. Around Iceland, the pilot got a message that a plane that had left Prestwick about half an hour before we did had gone down. We spent about an hour at low altitude looking for it, but could find no sign of it. We were on the ground in Iceland for about an hour and then took off for New York.

When we landed in New York, we were transported to New Cantonment Hospital at Mitchell Field on Long Island. Four days later, I checked myself out of the hospital, took an ambulance to the train station and went to Boston where my parents met me and took me home to Barrington, New Hampshire. About three weeks later, GE sent a limousine to pick me up and take me to Schenectady, New York to start work.

In November 1945, I met Shirley at her sister’s wedding. We were married six months later on May 25, 1946.

My first project after returning to GE was the development of rocket engines and the control of the thrust of rocket engines. In January 1946, I was sent to White Sands, New Mexico to help with the interrogation of the German engineers that had worked on the German V-1 and V-2 rockets that were used to bomb London and other targets.

In 1949, I left GE and went to work for Raytheon in Waltham, Massachusetts. I was in charge of developing control sys-machines for steel, like controlling the thickness (gauge) of sheet steel and many other forms of steel.

On March 28, 1979, the nuclear power plant on Three Mile Island near Middletown, Pennsylvania overheated, which caused the uranium core to melt and allowed radioactive gas to escape into the atmosphere. This caused the nuclear rods in the reactor to melt and break and fall to the bottom of the reactor housing. I was asked to design and build equipment that would go in to the reactor housing and retrieve the pieces of nuclear material without exposing the operators to radiation. It took several months to design and build this equipment, but it did the job without any injuries.

I was also asked to design control equipment for the nuclear electric generating plant in Puerto Rico. This equipment would raise and lower the nuclear rods that would adjust power output to the level needed for the electric generators.

Our most interesting project with AT & T was working with the Bell Lab engineers to develop a remote operated vehicle to operate on the ocean floor. This vehicle, named SCARAB (submersible craft assisting repair and burial) was launched and controlled from a large ship. With a central cable between the ship and SCARAB, the SCARAB could find and track telephone cables that were buried in the ocean floor. Frequently, these cables would be damaged which would require locating the damaged area, bringing the cable to the surface, repairing the damage, replacing the cable on the ocean floor and burying it to prevent further damage. SCARAB was also used to locate items such as crashed airplanes. For example, pieces of the Air India jet that crashed off the coast of Ireland were located and recovered 700 feet below the ocean surface.

We also designed and built the equipment to install and bury the first fiber optic telephone cable between the Canary Islands.

We also developed, for Bethlehem Steel, an off-shore drilling platform jacking system that would raise the platform above the water about 20 feet to prevent wave damage to the drilling platforms.

As time went on, I was asked to be an expert witness on numerous legal cases. When my chief engineer passed away, my full time job was consulting and expert witness projects. I am now 83 and have an expert witness case to work on.

I believe my success in the engineering business was due to the excellent training I had at Coe-Brown Northwood Academy and the University of New Hampshire. Also, I was very fortunate to have the opportunity to work with excellent people.
Class of 1936:
Elizabeth Doe Jaderborg in Lindsburg, KS, writes: ‘I am ready to send a check to you for the new dinner hall. We used to sit on the grass bank (east of the Academy building) with Roxie Richardson when we ate our lunches. She was the best teacher I ever had – Math and History of Civilization, and I learned more about nutrition from studying her sandwiches and listening to her than I did in four years at Keene in home economics classes. She always brought her lunch even though she and George (her husband at the “Pansy Farm”) were within walking distance. She was an unforgettable person at Coe-Brown for all her students – just ask “Bill” Hayes, my classmate in Texas.’

Class of 1938:

Dear Ginny, It was my pleasure to meet you at Johnson’s on Sept. 19th. Our group had a great time talking over old times. At the Chapel, I met three people that I went to UNH with, so it was quite an evenful day. I am so glad that Coe-Brown is such a good school. I can’t believe how it has grown. The Trustees have been good stewards. I still can’t believe Perry Richardson has left us. I guess I always figured he would be near to care about the Academy. I still have some pictures which I will have copied for you. How many members of Class of 1938 are still living? I have met and become friendly with Betty Young Geers (1948); I always knew George. She and I worked at the same place at different times. Hope to make Coe’s Reunion some year.

Class of 1939:
We are sorry to learn that Ellsworth Davis recently passed away.

Class of 1948:
Betty Young Geers, Class Agent, 19 Mooreland Ave.

Marion Williams still volunteers with the Red Cross. Marion and Betty enjoy getting together a few times a year with Joy Campbell Kimball ’47. We enjoyed a lunch this summer with Grace Bartlett Perkins’49. Chatted with Romayne Jackson. She says she’s “content” with her family. Gordon Fogg moved to the “White Rock” apartment complex in Bow. When I spoke with him, he was getting ready to drive to Washington, DC to help celebrate one of his grandchildren’s first birthday! Jimmy Gray says he’s “still alive and kicking”, still working and “plugging along from day to day”. Doesn’t that sound just like the Jimmy we knew at CBNA? He reports sister Virginia ’46 now lives in Ossipee.

George Clark is still busy and active with the Fire Department and the Deerfield Fair Association. Arthur is fine and planning on seeing everyone at the reunion. Bob has a busy family with sons working on Masters Degrees, grandchildren at Plymouth State University and a granddaughter that has been in the Army. A granddaughter has one child and a grandchild, two, making Bob a great-grandfather three times!! He drove to Maryland for his feed of crab cakes.

Betty and George ’43 enjoyed a visit from Leatitia “Juma” Gugill Richards ’46. George Richards ’45 and Paul Gugill ’52 this summer. Great to see them and talk over old memories. Betty and George are looking forward to being great-grandparents in July. “How time flies!”

Romayne, George, Arthur and Betty represented the Class of 48 at the Reunion in 2004. Would love to have the whole class join us this June. ’Til next time, Betty.

Class of 1951:
Robert L. Burkland, Class Agent - 226 Northwood Rd., Strafford, NH 03884, Telephone: 603-669-9631; e-mail bolaketurtlcove@webtv.net.

I finally located classmate Robert Reis thru Classmates.com. We graduated from Coe-Brown over 50 years ago and last contacted each other. Bob e-mailed me a brief history of his life since 1951.

Robert Reis, 1621 Brown Dr., Belen, NM 87002-7003. Telephone: 505-864-4278; e-mail: rcreis@flash.net.

Bob, received your fax in August, then shortly after, received a letter. Since 1951 in my life - After graduating from Coe-Brown, I went to UNH and received a degree in economics in May, 1953. The following September I was called into the Air Force. I had received a commission from ROTC. I went to flight school and got my wings in 1956 as a multi-engine pilot. SAC took most of the class, and I ended up as a B-47 pilot. Got out in 1958, and having viewed a girl while stationed in Idaho, we returned to her home in St. Louis and got married. I went to work for Mosanto Chemical Co. in STL, was there for nine years. During that time we had two children and a very happy boy born in 1960 and a girl JILL in 1965. Moved to Angelika for five years. Had a boy, Rob in 1968. The next 20 years I was with Maritz Inc, a motivation and group travel company. They transferred me to San Francisco in 1987, where I lived until retirement in 1992. My wife passed away in 1980. The kids remained in STL.

I remarried in 1994 and stayed in California until 1995, when we moved to New Mexico, my wife’s home. We’re in the town of Belen, 35 miles south of Albuquerque. I’m active in the local Chamber of Commerce and other volunteer activities. My passion is golf. I played on the New Mexico Seniors Tour, in which we get to play all over the state and win some nice prizes. I’ve won a couple of times in each of the last few years, so it keeps me going. My wife Bea worked for the U. of NM.

Am very active with the UNH Alumni. Will be coming back to NH next June for my 59th Reunion. Can you believe it? Any way that’s about it. I’d love to hear about all the Coe-Brown Alumni.

In 2004 we visited St. Louis to visit with family and our five grandchildren. Bea’s job with U. of NM requires her to travel periodically. If it’s a good destination, I tag along. This year we traveled to Washington, DC and San Antonio, TX.

Class of 1954:
Norene Holmes Sauls, P.O. Box 955, Marretts Inlet, SC 29576 (843) 631-0786 NINeSauls@qol.com

In a note from Nomi, she says: “Derek Peterson called me for a pledge to the annual fund. I was delighted to hear from him, as I was the nurse at Northwood Elementary when he moved to Northwood. Will see you all in May when my granddaughter, Kayla Sauls, graduates. My father, Noah Holmes, graduated in 1931 from CBNA. I graduated in 1954, my son Wade Sauls graduated in 1984 and his daughter, Kayla, graduates in 2005. That is what you call a tradition. I am glad my children were there when Mr. David Smith arrived. You have made us proud.” (Norene Holmes Sauls Niemeyer ’54).

Class of 1956:
F. Anne Kastron, 318 Webber R., No. Waterboro, ME 04081. Telephone: 207-247-3319; e-mail: jfk@tdelphia.net.

Hi! I am the new Class Agent for the Class of 1956. Since we have not had one in several years and since 2006 is fast approaching (more on that later), I volunteered to contact my former Classmates and get reacquainted with them. For the most part, it has been a lot of fun and I have heard back from several of them.

Sadly, we have lost one classmate, Virginia A. Kelley. Virginia died on Feb. 22, 2002 of cancer. She lived in Cass City, MI and was married to Scott Kelley for 45 years. She had 4 children, 4 grandchildren and 1 great grandson. Our heartfelt condolences do go out to Ginny’s family.

And our sincere sympathy is extended to Lorraine ’56 and Paul O’Neal ’55, whose daughter died this winter.

Gloria Twombly Colpritt lives in Exeter, NH. She has 2 daughters and 1 son, 7 grandchildren, all girls. She is enjoying her retirement and loves taking trips.

Barbara Corbett Thompson lives in Macon, GA. She and her husband Don have 6 children, 9 grandchildren and 1 great grandson. Barbara is retired and enjoys hiking, reading, volunteer work, sewing and traveling. She and her husband enjoy attending Elder Hostel trips.

Reta Shepard White lives in Deerfield, NH and has 1 son and 2 grandsons. Sadly, she lost her husband after 37-1/2 years. Reta is a waitress and enjoys playing bingo, playing cards, going to Foxwoods and traveling.

Barbara DeMerit Gray has lived in Los Altos, CA since 1968 except for 5-1/2 years when she lived in Hong Kong. She has 2 children, 3 stepchildren and 5 grandchildren. She is a retired Secretary. Sadly, she lost her husband this past year. She does enjoy gardening, quilting, reading and belongs to Quilting and Stitchery guilds and also the Los Altos History Museum.

Lorraine DeButts O’Neal lives in Deerfield, NH with her husband Paul (1954). They have been married for 47 years. Sadly, they lost their only daughter this past year. Lorraine is a retired hardware store owner. She enjoys making people laugh, plays, singing, cooking, gardening and Country music. Lorraine was very helpful in getting me addresses of several of our classmates.

Shirley M. Young lives in Penacook, NH and is retired from Laboratory Medicine. She loves camping and playing cards. She spends her summers in New England and winters in Florida.

Robert L. Wentworth now lives in Rochester, NH. He is retired from the US Air Force and works part time. He is married and has 6 children and 2 stepchildren. He enjoys collecting stamps and coins, reading, playing cards and watching football.

F. Anne Kustron lives in North Waterboro, ME. She is a retired Optometric assistant. She has been married to John for 46 years. They have 2 sons and 2 daughters, 2 granddaughters and 3 grandsons. They enjoy living in their home on Ossipee Lake in No Waterboro. Anne enjoys baking, sewing, reading, playing cards and traveling. She has belonged to Lions International for 28 years. They love traveling with their 3rd wheel camper to the Southwest every winter. I do have to tell you that her whole class of 1956 will plan on attending our 50th Class reunion in June 2006. I do plan on going to the Alumni Banquet (June 11) this year and would love to meet any of my former classmates who can possibly attend. In any event please make note of June 2005 and June 2006 on your calendar. Thanks for all the participation in getting the questionnaires back to me and I would love to hear from all of you and any further information you would like to have included in next year’s VISION. I can be reached at the address listed above.

Class of 1957:

Robert Wallace Stearns - Class Agent. 9 Old Pittsfield Rd., Northwood, NH 03261. Telephone: 603-942-5774; e-mail: rnsseagull@msn.com

It is with deepest sadness that we learned of the death of Leonard Burritt. We each have our individual memories of Lenny. Our deepest sympathy is sent to his family.

Millie Pectle Wolak writes from Maspeth, New York. She says, “I’ve been married twice, and both husbands are now deceased. I have three children named Linda, Michael, and Mary. Unfortunately, I have no grandchildren yet. Linda is a home attendant, Michael is a manager of an adult home and going to college and expects his Master’s in 2005. Mary is a paralegal in the entertainment and play scrabble and shuffleboard with senior citizens. I’m retired from Met Life, but occasionally work for blind people. I also travel to visit relatives and friends in NY, NH and Florida.” Millie is planning to be at our 50th reunion in 2007.

Eleanor Kelley Corbin, RN lives in Keene and is a nurse consultant to Hillcrest Homes, an assisted living facility in Westbrook, Maine; Shoe Pine Shores, an assisted living facility in Goshen and Dartmouth-Hitchcock Clinic in dermatology in Keene. She is active at Beth-Ell Bible Church in Surry. She also sews, reads, and gardens. I might add that Eleanor does all this while being confined to a wheelchair.

Class of 1965:

Barbara Holmes Pratt, Class Agent - P.O. Box 159, Northwood, NH 03261. Telephone: 603-942-8197

Susan Slade Carr is married to Tom Carr whom she met at State College in PA. She has a grown daughter named Selena. She worked in computer programming for IBM for 17 years. IBM sold their entire group, people and software to a company called Check Solutions. They were bought out by Caricla, Inc. All employees automatically went to the new company. She used to travel a lot for her job, including a couple of assignments overseas. Lately she has been able to stay close to home. She would like to retire early, but, still has a lot to do and learn. She still reads a lot and loves the WorldWide Web. It’s like a huge library, all inside her house. She’s done historic reenactment and interpretation, focusing on the period of the Early Republic. She still does various crafts and has done a lot of research into her family genealogy. She found out that her 3rd great grandmother was Martha Lane, daughter of Revolutionary War soldier John Lane of Lee, NH. She married a Trickey from Portsmouth and both his and her relatives go back to the founding of New Hampshire. She has lived in North Carolina for 13 years. The longest she has lived anywhere except in Northwood.

Her business E-mail is: Sraff@carrecker.com.

This year will be the Class of 1965’s 40th reunion. I hope some of you will come to the Alumni Banquet this year. I would like to see you. I still need addresses for some of our class. If anyone has them could they please send them to me. Missing classmates are Jane Daintrym Castro and Nancy Jenkins Vaitkus. Thanks for your help. Barbara

Class of 1971:

Please stop and visit if you ever go to Yellowstone National Park. Cathy.

Class of 1973:

Pamela Holmes Wood, 1762 Jericho Rd., Meridan, ID 83642 (208) 888-7949 pswood4@aol.com

Pamela Holmes Wood, Class Agent, wrote: This year is special for the Class of ’73. For most of us, there is a big birthday ahead. Some may have had it last year, but for me, it’s now. It has been difficult to say the number our old, but 50 is, ready or not. Having been asked to be the class agent this year of all years, has been a treat. As I was writing to all of you, memory after memory came passing. Just like time, just like being party. A special thanks to those of you who responded. Here are some updates from Shelley Bennett Kirschner. She is living in Missouri, married with a 16-year old son, Cody. Her husband and his two cousins work their 150-year old family farm. She has been teaching those with learning disabilities for 28 years and is ready to retire. Aren’t we all. Shelley is a yardstick for which to measure your intellectual acumen. It’s hard to keep up, but what fun it is to try.

Marilyn Konopka Metcalfe. She and husband Bob live in New Hampshire. They have a daughter, Jen, who has her degree in criminal justice. Marilyn spends her free time running road races and has taken up bike racing. In between all of this, she has been working for the state, going on twenty years. Her heart has given her some problems, requiring surgery, but as ever, it remains in the right place. She gives us all good reasons to think about and the need for health care.

Karen Belyea Jalbert. She and her husband lived in Merrimack, New Hampshire for the last 20 years, but have recently moved to Nashua. They have four children and two grandchildren. They have owned a restaurant, she has managed a restaurant, and now she is working for the Merrimack School system as cook in the lunch program. Her husband is now an auto body painter. Art and food—what a great combination! I haven’t had a chance to ask her if she is a really good cook, a gift to all.

Sharolyn and Everett Brown. They live in Northwood. Everett has a thriving auto repair business, and Sherril has been working for the state for enough years to enjoy retiring. I have been lucky enough to catch up with them on their sporadic visits home. I wish they were more often and longer.

I live in Idaho with my husband and two children. They are only 15 and 11. It took me longer to grow up. I hope it takes me even longer to grow old. For all of you who opened the letter this 1st, I sent, I hope they came with happy memories. Who could have imagined how much Cole-Brown would have grown and how great it has become. We will be a Class Agent or GINNY ROGERS BY 1/15/06.

Robin Burbland Drown ’76 & husband Rich Drown

Attention all 1974 graduates: I have tried to contact many of you however find that my email address list for most of you is no longer up to date. Please contact me via email with the updated information so that I can be more effective with dispersing/requesting information from each of you. I would also like to extend an invitation for you to consider joining Heidi and I for the annual alumni dinner held at Cole Brown each June. The cost for attending is minimal and I am sure that many other alumni would feel good to see new faces. At the very least it would be wonderful to spend a few hours together catching up and the support it offers to all those who faithfully attend each year would be appreciated. Heidi and I have attended for several years and enjoy the time together as well as the opportunity to visit with those we would otherwise miss. I know that Mel has mentioned a BIG 50 coming up, what a good chance for joining forces and celebrating with a little reunion.

Be sure to write me and we can work on this together. Suze Cummings-Falcone ptera@comcast.net 603 734-2383

Class of 1987:

Christine Larsen Mousseau, 121 Meadow Rd., Apt 2; Keene, NH 03431. Telephone: 603-357-4145. E-mail: cmousseau@onlineplaygroup.com.

Dear Mrs. Rogers: My name is Christine Mousseau. My maiden name was Larsen and I’m a former student of the Class of 1987. I have enjoyed reading the Visions and getting news about Cole-Brown. I would really love to plan a 20th Class Reunion in 2007 for our class. I have been living in Keene, NH for the past 16 years. I have been married for 6 years now to a wonderful man and I have a 3-year-old daughter, named Mikayla.

I have always loved Cole-Brown. Being a student there 18 years ago was one of the best times of my life. My favorite teachers were many, but Mr. Smith and Mr. Hall had a very special place in my heart. I dreamed of someday becoming a History teacher, like Tom Hall and teaching at Cole-Brown. I really want my daughter to somehow attend Cole-Brown when she is in high school. I miss the school a lot and would love to put time in to be a Class Agent. I am a stay-at-home Mother. So I have a lot of time. I am home during the day and you can call at any time. Either email, call or write to me to let me know if I can become a Class Agent for the Class of 1987. Thank you very much. (Thank you Christine for volunteering to be a Class Agent, Welcome aboard! Ginny).

The Class of 1987 is fortunate to have two Class Agents now. Julie Allen Snell also volunteered to work with Christine on updating the mailing list and contacting those who are AWOL. You can contact Christine at the above address. Julie can be contacted at: Julie Allen Snell, P.O. Box 228, Northwood, NH 03261. Telephone: 603-942-7583; E-mail juliesnell@webtv.net

THANKS! to all the Class Agents who sent in Class Notes. Ginny Rogers

CLASS NOTES ARE DUE JANUARY 15, 2006
What's It Like On the Other Side…

... of the desk? Coe-Brown Northwood Academy is very fortunate to have a number of its graduates now sitting on the other side. They offered interesting perspectives on that.

Sitting in that position for a long time is Sally Johnson Aseltine ’69, who commented, “The differences between the late 1960’s and now are substantial. There’s a whole different school administration, the size of graduating classes has increased from 20 in my class to 150 in the Class of 2005. There were no counselors when I attended. I have flashbacks, remembering when I was in the same room 40 years ago.

“I said I would never come back and it actually took 19 years before I was on the other side of the desk here. There was an intriguing position advertised for a part-time position at Coe-Brown. I was working full-time for the state then and I had little children with whom I wanted to spend more time. My dream is that CBNA will never lose the small-school feel and that it will maintain the positive atmosphere and tone that David Smith has set. He encourages innovation, hires good people and then trusts them to do the right thing. I also dream about the fine arts center Coe-Brown will one day have.”

A graduate of Bates College, with her M.S.W. from Michigan State University, Sally is Dean of Student Services and Guidance Director and advisor to the Peer Helpers at Coe-Brown Northwood Academy. She has been a member of the Board of Trustees, a guidance counselor and also a public health social work consultant, social worker and therapist in her career.

Stacy Johnson Colman, who graduated in 1989, twenty years after her aunt Sally did, originally felt “a little weird when I came back to Coe-Brown to work with many of the same teachers I’d had in class. I found it very difficult to call them by their first names – that was so hard to overcome. On the other hand, when I was a student, I found it very hard to call my Aunt Sally Mrs. Aseltine! And Mr. Smith was the headmaster when I was a student!

But the atmosphere that I loved was still the same and gradually I became more comfortable. But, I never in my wildest dreams thought I’d teach high school level and be on the other side of the desk here. I’d been teaching third grade and the nearest thing that happened: some of the kids I taught in Nottingham came here. Everything has come full circle and there are so many connections and memories. My dream? I want the wonderful atmosphere to continue and I want a bigger library with two media specialists and a larger media room.”

A graduate of Wheaton College, Stacy is pursuing a graduate degree in Library Science; she is CBNA’s library assistant and formerly taught elementary school in the area.

Sarah Mooers Ward, ’83, agreed with Stacy that it was “strange to be working with many of the same teachers that I had had in school and sometimes it was awkward. My first job had been in Georgia, where I was an overwhelmed horticulture and electronics teacher; I came home when my father died. At first I worked part time as an agriculture teacher with Mr. Davis and Mr. Farr and I was so comfortable with the curriculum here. And the staff is so very close. Mr. Farr had said I’d be a wonderful teacher; I hope I am.

“The major difference is the size of the graduating classes because mine only had 36, a small but bright group. The administration is really different too because the school was not very well managed before I started here and then we got Mr. Smith! He’s consistent, fair and doesn’t waiver. My dream is that my department will get more physical lab space because my classes and I grow the flowers and foundation plantings that we install. The Board is involving me in planning of spaces. We need a chain saw lab as well! And the barn stays!”

Sarah graduated from the University of New Hampshire with an associate’s degree in horticultural science from the Thompson School of Applied Science. She then received a BS in Agricultural Education from the University of Georgia. She is a member of the Strafford Conservation Commission.

Robert Reese Mongeon ’66, who teaches Family and Consumer Studies, has an Associate in Arts degree from UNH, Manchester, and B. S. in Home Economics Secondary Education from UNH. “I’ve been on this side of the desk so long I’m not sure I remember the student side! I do remember that it would be a rare occasion when we did not do our homework and very few students would speak to a teacher in a disrespectful manner. My dream for Coe-Brown is that it always be a school that tries to educate all students regardless of their needs.”

James Johnson ’84 is a math teacher. “Sitting on the other side of the desk seems normal now. The biggest difference in Coe-Brown is the size – there are 3 times the number of students now than when I was a student. I hope the school doesn’t grow too much.”

James studied Energy Management at UNH and Mathematics Education at NH College.

Jennifer Wheet ’90 is an English teacher at CBNA. She too, had some problems adjusting to her new role. “Going from student to teacher was strange at first, I have to admit. I did part of my student teaching at Coe-Brown, before I was an ‘official’ teacher, and it was a very odd feeling to be eating lunch with some of my former teachers and entering the ‘inner sanctum’ of the teachers’ room. It has taken me about five years to get comfortable with calling some of my colleagues by their first names, because I respected them so much as my teachers. I still can’t bring myself to call Headmaster Smith by his first name! One of the downsides is that I have obscured many of my own high school memories of Coe-Brown. Since this is the place where I work on a daily basis, it’s gone from ‘here’s the room where I first talked to that boy! to ‘here’s the room where I taught that great class.’

The physical structures and look of the buildings and campus have changed tremendously in just fourteen years. No more dangerous dashes across Route 4 for gym class, as now there is an underground tunnel. As a student, I remember parking my car each morning in front of Soper House and waving to Mrs. Thumm in her kitchen as she made breakfast for her husband, a custodian at the time. Now it’s a building of classrooms and unrecognizable as a former home. My cross-country club (not even an official team at that time) used to run up into the sandpits and hills across the street where now we find a modern track and baseball field. My own classroom is located in what many of us remember as the boys’ locker room. The old shower is still there, used as a supply closet. I think it’s funny that I teach in a place that was so forbidden and mysterious to me as a student!

“I can see great changes in the students today as well. We had no cable television, internet, or even sophisticated computers when I was a student. I think we were less worldly, and perhaps enjoyed a longer childhood. Students today are more savvy and are much more knowledgeable about the world outside Northwood. This has both positive and negative consequences.

"While most people embrace change, my hope is that as we move forward, we keep much of the tradition, values, discipline and pride that we've always had at Coe-Brown. I think it is this consistency that makes this school such a wonderful place to attend and a great place to work -- as evidenced by the number of alumni that come back! Alumni of any era would be able to recognize parts of the Coe-Brown they knew so well despite the changes to the campus. And although we're larger, it still feels like the same close community we've always had. Class size remains small, and I'm able to give the same close attention that I received from teachers to my students in turn. I like the thought of Coe-Brown passing down its traditions for a long time to come, and I enjoy being a part of its long history."

Jennifer has a B.A. in English/Communications from Boston's Emmanuel College and an M.S.T. in English from the University of New Hampshire.

Sharon Young Graham '81 is a paraprofessional who is happy to be working at Coe-Brown. "Coe-Brown is very appreciative of its employees. The Academy has more to offer than when I attended and the population has changed dramatically. I had 41 students in my graduation class.

"I would like to see Coe-Brown expand in the way that Concord, Spaulding, Exeter, Dover and many other schools have. Those schools have courses for everybody; not every student goes to college. My dream is for a bigger vocational program and an expansion of the arts programs because not everyone is an athlete. Coe-Brown needs to demonstrate more diversity in the programs that it offers."

Tanya Newton Spead '93, who has been a paraprofessional at CBNA for three years, reflects, "Being on the other side of the desk reminds me of how frustrating school can be. I recognize my own body language, in the kids, from when I was a student. Being on the other side of the desk has taught me that teachers are 'human' and they can become frustrated when time and effort are put into a student and the student does not try. The rewards as a teacher really come from the students you were truly able to reach, especially when nobody else could. Teachers who are no longer here at CBNA fought the battle to have me see what I could be. If not for those teachers who took the time and made the effort to really know me as a person I would have never gone to college.

"The biggest difference I see at CBNA is that, because of its size, it's losing its small town flavor. I am glad to hear the words 'our community' from the headmaster because it reminds me of when I attended school here. When I attended CBNA we were a class M school with 389 students. All of the teachers, including those I did not have, knew me. Even today some of the alumni tell me stories about things I did or said when I was a teen.

"My dream is for CBNA to not get any larger. I think that all the faculty members that I have seen really try to motivate their students. In the future I want to still see, every other week, students recognized in the gym for their efforts in academics, activities and sports. This was where I first thought of becoming the first person in my family to go to college. The names of people being announced who were involved made me want to be more active. Because of this I was active in several things, including cheerleading, cross country, chorus, National Art Society and Peer Counseling. I now have a BA in Behavioral Science as a result of my peer counseling experiences. I would like to see CBNA continue to encourage the creation and display of art. I have been in many schools and nowhere have I seen the display of talented artists' work like we do here. I would like to see more creative writing showcased or read to the student body, as well."

Cheri Smith Wolf '72 is the secretary of student services. Her memories are vivid. "As a junior and senior at Coe-Brown I helped Mrs. Bea Clements (then the school secretary) out in the front office every chance I got, answering the telephone, filing, and doing whatever else had to be done; I was always ready to help. I had always dreamed of coming back and working in the office. This July will be my 21st year. I guess that might speak for itself. To be able to interact with today's generation has been a pleasure and at times a challenge. I enjoyed my high school years - my favorite classes - all office procedures - accounting, typing, etc. I wish that I were attending Coe-Brown at the present because of all the classes offered at this level.

"I would have to say the major difference between then and now is the teachers. These teachers at present care so much about their students, it's hard to believe how much they care. Being a student in the 70's, teachers didn't have the same concerns, patience or attitudes toward their students. Don't get me wrong, we did have some great teachers and maybe being a student then has a lot to do with my perceptions. Another major difference is the expansion of the school, to say the least, from my 24-member class when I graduated in 1972, to 150 in today's senior class. Part of where I'm working right now used to be the library. There have been lots of changes.

"I come from a long line of graduates from Coe-Brown - my mom, uncles, aunts, brothers and sister all graduated from CBNA, as well as my three children, Ricky, Heather and Brian. "My dream is that I'd like to see CBNA stay small. Coe-Brown has grown by leaps and bounds, both student - and building-wise and to continue growth would take the individual closeness away."

Gary Colby '81 said, "It feels awesome to be on the other side of the desk. It literally is a dream come true. Since I decided to be a teacher back in the late '70's it had always been a goal of mine to come back and teach where I enjoyed growing up so much.

"The differences between now and then are so many that trying to list them all is impossible. The size of the student body growing from 140 in 1981 to close to the 700 mark today truly shows the positive place this school has become. I always say that our crowded hallways are the result of our success. Teaching in rooms that was years ago served so many other purposes or did not even exist is really neat as well, although I miss having classes up in room 401 and how it used to sway a little on a really windy day. I also see now how Northwood and Strafford have become bedroom communities for so many professionals who now send their students here. The local flavor and small feel still exist but the professional public now expects more for their children and CBNA has certainly met and exceeded expectations.

"My dream for the future of our school is that it continues to be a great place to learn and work and that more young people are inspired by what they do here and grow up to be teachers themselves."

Gary received his B. A. degree from Notre Dame College, in Manchester, NH where he majored in US History and minored in Education.
The New Hampshire Commission on the Status of Women held its 18th Annual New Hampshire High School Women’s Athletic/Academic Award Program on Monday, January 31 at the Capitol Center for the Arts in Concord. Over 500 high school women from throughout New Hampshire were recognized for achieving academic and athletic excellence. Award recipients were nominated by their high school principals based on criteria that required that each high school senior have a B+ grade point average, have lettered in at least two varsity sports, participated in community service activities and served as a role model to her peers. At the awards ceremony, each student received a certificate and a commemorative pin.

The recipients from Coe-Brown were: Stacie Beliveau, Jennifer Chick, Sarah Hall, Stacey Kent, Kayla Sauls and Jennifer Whiting.

In addition to the Commission on the Status of Women, the NH Department of Education, the NH Interscholastic Athletics Association, and the NH Athletic Directors’ Association were co-sponsors of the event.
